For immediate release

Nov. 4, 2016

DES MOINES – The Latino Vote Iowa campaign will once again meet with registered Latino voters and encourage them to vote on Tuesday.

This weekend's efforts will be focused on the north-central neighborhoods of Des Moines. Campaign staff will canvass neighborhoods in precincts 17, 18, 34-38, 45 and 46 from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Through five rounds of canvassing to 29 precincts and calls to Latinos who live in suburban precincts, campaign workers have already connected with more than 5,000 registered Latino voters in Polk County. The hope is to reach another 5,000 registered Latino voters in Polk County before Election Day.

The Latino Vote Iowa campaign is the first-ever largescale outreach to the Latino community for a general election.

Those who are interested should meet at 2463 E. Highview Drive shortly before noon. For more information, contact Mitch Henry 515-865-4084 or tcboss@aol.com.

This is a nonpartisan campaign. Canvassers cannot wear or distribute materials that identify any candidate or party. There are no exceptions.

Registered voters will receive information about how to vote and how to register, voter eligibility and how to handle problems at the polls. All printed materials will be available in English and Spanish.
